PAWS Atlanta:

Shaping a Stronger, Sustainable Future for Pets and Their People

*A Message from our
Executive Director
& Board Chair*

Dear Friends and Supporters,

It is with great pride and deep gratitude that we share PAWS Atlanta's new five-year strategic plan. For 60 years, PAWS Atlanta has been a trusted resource for pets and pet owners across Metro Atlanta. Since 1966, we have remained dedicated to creating a more compassionate community where every pet can thrive and every family has access to the resources they need to keep their beloved animals healthy and safe.

This plan is the product of thoughtful collaboration among our staff, board, volunteers, donors, and supporters. We listened closely to our community, reflected on our role in a rapidly changing animal welfare landscape, and envisioned how we can deepen our impact for decades to come. The result is a bold, yet grounded roadmap designed to expand lifesaving care and ensure that we are meeting the evolving needs of our community with empathy, innovation, and excellence.

Our strategic priorities will guide us as we continue to advance our animal-centric shelter operations, expand community-based programs, and build the systems, collaborative relationships, and resources necessary to support more Metro Atlanta pets and their owners. We will invest in our team, leverage data to inform decisions, cultivate partnerships, and strengthen our financial resilience to ensure long-term sustainability.

This work is possible because of the supporters, fosters, adopters, donors, and volunteers who believe in our mission. Your commitment has shaped PAWS Atlanta's history and will protect the future of countless cats and dogs as we broaden access to care, empower pet owners, and help keep animals out of shelters.

The journey ahead is both ambitious and inspiring, and we approach it with purpose and optimism. Together, we will continue transforming lives, one pet and one family at a time.

With gratitude,

Crystal Branan

Shelby's Story

Shelby, a beloved PAWS Atlanta alum originally adopted in 2023, was found by animal control in March 2025. Because of our lifelong commitment to our pets, she came straight home to us but was barely able to walk and had a frightening cancer diagnosis from another vet. However, our veterinary team took a closer look and discovered the real issue was a severe torn cranial cruciate ligament, a painful but treatable injury. Shelby received a life-changing surgery and weeks of foster-based recovery care. Free from pain for the first time in a long while, she regained her strength and joy and was ultimately adopted again into a loving home, proving that lifelong commitment and donor-funded medical care can truly change everything.

Executive Summary

meet KAZZA

For 60 years, PAWS Atlanta has stayed true to the heart of who we are: a no-kill shelter dedicated to rescuing animals in need, giving them compassionate, high-quality care, and working tirelessly to match them with their perfect forever families. Our mission has always extended far beyond the day an animal is adopted. We believe deeply in a lifetime commitment to every pet who leaves our doors, and no matter how much time has passed, or how far we need to travel, we will always welcome back any PAWS Atlanta alum who needs us again. This unwavering promise remains at the heart of who we are and will continue to guide our work for decades to come, and it is the foundation on which we now build the next chapter of our strategic vision.

PAWS Atlanta stands at a pivotal moment in its history. From our roots as a small shelter to our role today as a leader in no-kill excellence, we have adapted to meet the changing needs of animals and families in Metro Atlanta. This growth has positioned us not only as a safe haven for pets in crisis, but also as a trusted partner in building stronger, healthier communities.

Looking ahead, the challenges facing animal welfare are complex and interconnected. Rising veterinary costs, housing instability, and limited access to affordable pet care place families at risk of losing beloved companions. At the same time, shelters across the country are experiencing record intakes and growing demands for resources. These realities call for organizations like PAWS Atlanta to think beyond traditional sheltering and embrace holistic solutions that support both pets and the people who love them.

This strategic plan was developed to chart a clear and ambitious path forward by providing a roadmap for the next five years or growth and innovation. Through a collaborative process that included input from staff, volunteers, board members, supporters, and community partners, we identified both our greatest strengths and the areas where we must grow. This plan reflects both the challenges and opportunities facing animal welfare in Metro Atlanta and positions PAWS Atlanta as a trusted leader in the field. Developed from extensive research into emerging needs, trends, and best practices related to sheltering and animal welfare, and with input from key stakeholders, the plan balances aspirational goals with practical strategies for impact.

Our Mission:

PAWS Atlanta is a trusted no-kill animal shelter committed to compassionately caring for pets in need, supporting the people who love them, and keeping pets where they belong, safe in their homes and communities. We provide refuge for animals in need, vital resources for pet owners in crisis, and tailored pathways that lead to successful, lasting placements. Guided by integrity, innovation, and a deep sense of community, we stand with pets and their people through every stage of life and create a lifelong safety net for both.

Our Vision:

We envision a community where no pet is at risk simply because care is out of reach. By expanding access to veterinary services, strengthening partnerships, and offering compassionate support, PAWS Atlanta helps keep pets with their families and prevents crisis before it begins.

Neco's Story

"A week ago was the first month mark that we adopted Neco. He has adapted to his new home and his new routine very well.

Also, something magical occurred the day after I brought him home. We were walking on the Beltline and this guy came toward me asking me if my dog was named Neco and if I adopted him from PAWS Atlanta. With all the people living in the city, we met the person who surrendered Neco. He was crying, I was crying; it was very emotional. He told me all about his mom and dad (who were the original owners) and how after their deaths he couldn't take care of Neco. During our chat, I could see his guilt disappear! It was magical... It was like his parents were there to show him that their beloved Neco was ok and surrounded by a lot of love again!

Both my husband and I are besotted with this little fluffy lovable creature. We are so lucky to have found him!"

Smidgen's Story

BioLab Fire Pup Finds Her Forever Home

Smidgen, a playful and affectionate pit bull mix, was rescued from the BioLab chemical plant fire in Rockdale County in September 2024, the same disaster that left much of the area under a shelter-in-place order due to hazardous air conditions. Among the 14 dogs saved that day, Smidgen became the longest-tenured of the BioLab pups at PAWS Atlanta, waiting 461 days for her perfect match.

During her time in foster care, Smidgen thrived. Her foster shared that she loved napping on the couch, curling up in laps, and enjoying playtime far more than long walks. She learned to manage her excitement around people and other dogs, adapted well to house-training, and settled into routines. "She's such a sweetheart and has gotten a lot of love," her foster said. "All in all, she's doing very well and has settled in wonderfully."

Now adopted by a loving family and renamed Frankie, she adores her new home, snuggling with her people, playing with her toys, and soaking up all the attention she waited so long for. Her story is a testament to PAWS Atlanta's unwavering commitment: we never give up on the pets in our care, no matter how long it takes to find their perfect match.

PAWS Atlanta's Strategic Pillars

The PAWS Atlanta Strategic Plan is organized around three interconnected pillars. Each pillar reflects a central area of focus, supported by specific objectives that define how we will achieve our vision for 2030. Together, they create a balanced approach that advances animal welfare, strengthens community partnerships, and ensures long-term organizational sustainability.

Long-Term Sustainability

To secure PAWS Atlanta's future, we will strengthen our financial foundation, expand philanthropic and grant support, and diversify revenue streams through community-based services. We will also invest in our staff, volunteers, and organizational culture to ensure our team is equipped to lead with compassion and expertise.

Leader in Animal Welfare

We will advance innovative practices in animal care, reduce in-shelter stress, and expand educational resources for the community. By creating a physical space that fosters innovation and access, PAWS Atlanta will become a cornerstone for training, advocacy, and thought leadership in Metro Atlanta and beyond.

Community Partner

Recognizing that keeping pets in homes is as important as adopting them out, we will expand crisis support, veterinary access, and mobile services to meet families where they are. Through partnerships with human service organizations, we will deliver holistic support that strengthens the human-animal bond and reduces the need for surrender.
